by Herb Delangte
Times suburban reporter
Private Property. No Trespassing.

Walk along Minor Avenue in Seattle and you will see some of the oldest and most beautiful old homes. Their windows still reflect the light of another era. The green shutters and white picket fences are gone but the charm remains.

Historic mansions are endangered.

by Herb Delangte
Times suburban reporter
Private Property. No Trespassing.

Walk along Minor Avenue in Seattle and you will see some of the oldest and most beautiful old homes. Their windows still reflect the light of another era. The green shutters and white picket fences are gone but the charm remains.

Historic mansions are endangered.

by Herb Delangte
Times suburban reporter
Private Property. No Trespassing.

Walk along Minor Avenue in Seattle and you will see some of the oldest and most beautiful old homes. Their windows still reflect the light of another era. The green shutters and white picket fences are gone but the charm remains.

Historic mansions are endangered.

by Herb Delangte
Times suburban reporter
Private Property. No Trespassing.

Walk along Minor Avenue in Seattle and you will see some of the oldest and most beautiful old homes. Their windows still reflect the light of another era. The green shutters and white picket fences are gone but the charm remains.

Historic mansions are endangered.

by Herb Delangte
Times suburban reporter
Private Property. No Trespassing.

Walk along Minor Avenue in Seattle and you will see some of the oldest and most beautiful old homes. Their windows still reflect the light of another era. The green shutters and white picket fences are gone but the charm remains.

Historic mansions are endangered.

by Herb Delangte
Times suburban reporter
Private Property. No Trespassing.

Walk along Minor Avenue in Seattle and you will see some of the oldest and most beautiful old homes. Their windows still reflect the light of another era. The green shutters and white picket fences are gone but the charm remains.

Historic mansions are endangered.

by Herb Delangte
Times suburban reporter
Private Property. No Trespassing.

Walk along Minor Avenue in Seattle and you will see some of the oldest and most beautiful old homes. Their windows still reflect the light of another era. The green shutters and white picket fences are gone but the charm remains.

Historic mansions are endangered.